EVERY NOW AND THEN PEOPLE think of how they might have been benefitted if they had done differently; of how many steps would have been saved if they had taken the shortest route; of how much they would have profited if they had paid a few cents more and got a good article, instead of taking the cheaper; for example: suppose you pay 20c for a pair of gloves, said to be just as good as others ask 25 cents for; but you are deceived, you soon have to buy another pair, thus expending 40 cents. Your neighbor comes to us, pays us 25 cents, gets a good pair, and actually gets more wear and more comfort out of the investment, and thus saves 15 cents. Who is ahead? Does it pay to buy shoddy? Draw your own conclusion.

EVERY CITY HAS ITS REPRESENTATIVE dry goods store, and Janesville is no exception. Why are we the recognized headquarters? Look at the size of our store, at the size of our stock at the volume of the business we do. How did we acquire such a foothold? By doing business on strictly business principles, by misrepresenting no goods, by being accommodating, by studying the interests of the people and keeping what they want. Acquaint yourself with our way of conducting a dry goods store by trading with us and see how you come out.

BORT, BAILEY & CO.

In the year 1872, while I was a professor in Chicago Medical College, was my partner in practice. The partnership was dissolved by mutual consent, that he might enter into the traveling business with Dr. F. B. Brewer. Respecting the man as I did for his social and business qualities, and for his medical attainments, I have kept watch of him since, and have such faith in his skill and ability, that after suffering a long time with heart trouble and general nervous prostration from which I failed to be relieved, although many kind physicians had assisted me in search of the desired relief, I finally wrote to my old friend and partner, describing my case. He sent me medicine at once of which I have been taking four weeks. I feel it due him, as well as those that think of consulting him, to give this testimonial, which I do unsolicited. I am 64 years old and have practiced medicine 39 years.

Dr. F. B. Brewer

TORN CLOTHES SAVE HIS LIFE.

Other Items of the Week Among Rock County People--Notes and Comment from Towns Near the River City--Milton Hospital.

AFTON, June 24.—[Special]—William Brinkman, proprietor of the Afton creamery, was whirled about on a swiftly revolving shaft today. When he dropped to the floor nearly all his clothing was wound around the shaft. The unfortunate man was standing on a milk can and reaching up to put a belt on a pulley above his head when his sleeve caught on the shaft. As he fell he struck another belt which lightened his fall, and also pitched him far enough sideways so that his head barely missed striking a sharp wheel, which otherwise would have split his skull.

HUNGRY FOR PLACES.

School for the Blind Watched by Politicians.

WILL THERE BE A CHANGE SOON?

A Member of the New Board of Control Questioned on the Subject, Denies That Active Measures Will Be Taken for Some Time.

MADISON, June 24.—"Will there be a change for the state schools for the blind and the deaf?" was asked of a member of the new state board of control who was in the city to-day.

"It is still too early to talk of these matters," he responded. "To be sure the board will be called upon as soon as it meets to decide upon a staff of teachers for all these institutions, but the make-up of the staffs have not been talked over."

It is generally understood that the school for the blind and the school for the deaf will be left until last if they are made with at all. Last winter the superintendent of both of these institutions were promised to party workers, but this fact became known and so strong a protest went up that a delay was thought to be prudent. Both offices must be filled by experts and these are rare.

The State Board of Supervision is holding its last meeting in the capitol at present. They are making their final reports and the new board will step in next week Thursday.

A FEUD REVIVED.

Bloodshed Renewed a Kansas County-Seat War.

WICHITA, Kan., June 24.—Col. Samuel N. Woods, who was a prominent factor in the opening of the western part of the state and had been a leader in politics since the early days of Kansas, was shot to death by James Brennan at Hugoton, Stevens county, Tuesday.

The two men met in the courthouse and renewed an old-time quarrel, and Brennan emptied three chambers of his revolver into Woods' body. Woods and Brennan were arrayed on different sides in the famous Hugoton-Wooddale county seat fight of three years ago, when everyone in the county went armed and people were killed every day, and it was a renewal of this old feud that led to the present killing.

Woods was the man who led the alliance into the impeachment proceedings against Judge Botkin which have recently closed. Brennan was arrested. The tragedy resulted directly from one immediately preceding it, which has become known to the county over as the "Sheriff Cross murder case."

The county seat war was waged between the towns of Hugoton and Wooddale. The latter was founded by Sam Woods, the victim of the murder, who was the leader of the faction which held that in the county seat election the victory had been obtained by fraud by the adherents of Hugoton.

Several ineffectual attempts had been made by the Wooddale people to remove the county records from Hugoton to Wooddale and establish the county seat there. One day about twenty-five Wooddale men armed themselves and marched in the direction of Hugoton.

They were met by Sheriff Cross, of Hugoton, with a posse. In a parley which ensued the Wooddale people said they had no belligerent intentions and were only going to the Indian territory hunting. They marched down the Indian territory, and Sheriff Cross and his posse followed them.

That same night a battle ensued between the two parties in which the sheriff and five of his posse were killed. Most of the Wooddale party were arrested on a warrant issued from the United States court at Fort Smith, Ark., in the original jurisdiction of which is the Indian territory. The trial resulted in conviction. The case was appealed to the supreme court, where the verdict was reversed and the case remanded for trial.

The case is still pending. During the trial at Fort Smith, Brennan was one of the principal witnesses for the state and Woods was one of the defendants' counsel, and during the trial he handled Brennan without gloves. Brennan swore revenge, and when he heard Tuesday that Sam Woods was in town he armed himself, and after a search found Woods standing on the courthouse corner. Without warning he drew his revolver and fired three shots into his victim's heart. Woods expired without uttering a word. Woods was very popular in Wooddale and when the news of his murder reached there it is feared the people will seek revenge and that the war between the two towns will be renewed.

The Ex-Senator Gave Specific Instructions Regarding the Ceremony.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 24.—On the day before ex-Senator McDonald's death he gave his son instructions concerning the funeral arrangements, even to the manner of dressing him and the location of his grave in the family lot at Crown Hill. He named the house he desired to be his pall-bearer. The guests were G. T. A. Moreys, A. L. Roache, John W. Murphy, John P. Frenzel and John M. Butler, of this city, with John S. Williams, of Lafayette; R. J. Bright, of Washington, and either Judge Gresham or Justice Harlan, of the federal court.

It will be held at the residence, No. 564 North Meridian street. The services will be conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Milburn and will be attended by the democratic political clubs in a body and by many persons from a distance.

WHY I AM A PROTECTIONIST.

I am a Protectionist because I think that by that policy the workmen of America will be well paid and not underpaid.

Because I think that by that policy the variety of industry will be created here which will make America strong in peace and in war.

Because the industries so fostered will develop the skill and brain power of my countrymen, and raise the people of the United States to the first rank in intelligence among the nations of the earth.

Because that policy has already made us the richest and strongest nation on earth, and under a properly restricted immigration will bring to us more than is most valuable in the population of other lands.—George F. Hoar in American Economist.

First—It brings together diversified industries which never fail to vastly increase the personal intelligence, industry and the earnings of the people.

Second—It adds prodigiously to the power of increasing by machinery and steam and water power the necessities of life and of advanced civilization, and also greatly cheapens the cost of subsistence.

Third—It furnishes an opportunity for every person to find employment best adapted to his or her genius and capacity, and that will secure the largest income or the greatest happiness.

Fourth—It creates a home market, without which the cultivators of land in America would be but a little better off than our aborigines.

Fifth—It is the bulwark of national independence in peace or war.—Justin S. Morrill in American Economist.

WALES IN DANGER.

Edward VII of England may never be more than a name. It has not been generally understood that parliament had more than a formal role in the matter of naming kings. The subject is under discussion over the water, and there is agreement among the accepted authorities that parliament has never lost the right, exacted centuries ago, to have a controlling hand in designating the occupant of the throne. If there could be found a more popular and worthy member of the reigning family, the selection would probably be made in that quarter if the prince was in strong disfavor. It is held also that parliament may pass over the entire family if it sees fit, and this has been the fact in more than one instance. It is asserted by some, and not very strongly controverted, that parliament may even dispense entirely with the royal business and make the head of things an elective officer as in a republic. In fact, there is hardly a limit to the authority of the legislative body.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

It is understood that the postmaster general will, in his next annual report, again recommend the establishment of postal savings banks. His argument in favor of such a system, presented to the late congress and referred to the senate committee on postoffices and post roads has recently been published, and is a vigorous plea for this method of encouraging thrift and economy among the people. The question is not a new one, having been first brought forward in the lower branch of congress by Mr. Maynard, of Tennessee, who afterward, in 1880, was postmaster general. The chief opposition to the project at that time was on the ground that there was no apparent way in which the enormous sums expected from depositors could be disposed of in the absence of a permanent national debt, but that form of opposition has been abandoned.

A Well-Known Lawyer Killed.

CHICAGO, June 24.—Hamilton Spencer, of Bloomington, Ill., 75 years old, was knocked down by Wells street cable car No. 596 at Washington and La Salle streets at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and received injuries from which death resulted at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. Mr. Spencer was one of the oldest lawyers of the state and had lived in Bloomington for many years. He was prominent at the bar and in all public movements in that part of the state and was known to the members of the profession throughout Illinois and adjoining states.

Michigan Legislature.
LANSING, Mich., June 24.—The house on Tuesday passed the senate bill making the legal rate of interest 6 per cent, and the outside limit on contracts 8 per cent, but defeated the bill making ten hours a legal day's work. The senate killed the bill repealing the local option law. The senate and house agreed on the sum of $37,000 for the mining school appropriation, $30,000 for the Traverse City insane asylum and $17,000 for the Kalamazoo asylum. The senate refused to reduce the appropriation for the world's fair from $125,000 to $100,000.

Fought in the Synagogue.
TRAVERSE CITY, Mich., June 24.—Several well-known members of the Jewish society were fatally wounded in a fight in the synagogue Monday night. An old feud in the society broke out and the members engaged in a free fight with axes, clubs and chairs. A number of arrests have been made and serious results will follow.

Fier Signs the Woman Suffrage Bill.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 24.—Gov. Fier has signed the bill which enables women to vote for all school officers. Twenty-six of the forty-four states, a considerable majority of all, have now given women some form of suffrage.

London laundry women are on a strike for shorter hours. The Philadelphia Record thinks that in the present unusually large wash of soiled linen in the British capital the strikers should readily command the situation.

Parnell feels as if he had high company since the certain has been lifted a little on the price. It is a relief.

The watermelon crop of the south is too large this year for a trust to open.

Some Protection Gems.

Hon. William E. Curtis—Four hundred years ago, Mr. chairman, a man was wandering about the capital of Spain asking assistance from the government to enable him to extend his riches and glory and power. He was denounced and derided. He was called a subsidy beggar and they said he was insane; but his persistence and patriotism succeeded, and America was discovered from the deck of a subsidized ship. After similar derision and disappointment those who have sought to extend the riches and glory and power of the United States have secured the consent of congress for increased facilities for reaching the markets that are being opened by the reciprocity arrangements, and we should commemorate the close of the fourth century of American civilization by recovering control of a commerce that belongs to us by reason of geographical and political association.

Hon. J. H. Walker—The American machine is the first and richest fruitage of the American protective tariff, and it is who has given to the farmer every tool and machine that has lightened his toil from the first and has made his labor twice as effective in 1890 as it was in 1860. Not one of them do we owe to Europe. It is said that the reaper was suggested there, but it was developed and made practical here. Our pre-eminence in the department of agricultural machinery is so pronounced that every form of agricultural appliance is cheaper in this country than in any other country in the world. We furnish to every other country its cheapest and best agricultural machinery, exporting millions of dollars' worth every year.

Robert P. Porter—During a decade of ferocious attack and gloomy prophecy by Free-traders we have added a nation to a nation—a nation complete in every particular. I have shown that the advancement of population, the increase of agricultural products, the diversification of manufacturing, the development of mineral resources, the extension of railroads and the building up of great commercial and industrial centers have kept perfect time to the martial music of our national progress. There is nothing discordant about this development, as Free-traders would have the people believe. The farmer has extended the area of cultivation into the unsettled region, the manufacturer has attracted thousands to the cities, and along the streams and mountain ranges mining villages have sprung up, and myriads of blast furnaces tell the story of the marvelous output of mineral wealth. That these results are some of the fruits of Protection as shown in the eleven census I have no doubt. Had such triumphant progress followed a period of Free-trade would not the very men who attack the census, belittle our industrial development and enviously laugh at our "home industry dinner" be foremost in attributing such stupendous strides to the fiscal system they advocate?

A base ball—"How's that, umpire?"

Pronounced Hopeless. Yet Saved.

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd, of Groton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles; it has cured me, and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman. Trial bottles free at W. T. Sherer & Co.'s drugstore; regular size 50c and $1.00.

Odd Facts About Circus Life Brought Out by the Forepaugh Exhibition.

ALL RINGS ARE THE SAME SIZE.

Things To Be Seen While the Big Canvas Is Rising—Odd Facts About Circus Men and Their Lives—To-Day's Performance.

All roads once led to Rome—probably because Rome had the first circus.

To-day all roads lead to the fair grounds.

"The circus is here."
"That was told by the crowds on the streets."

It was told by the three big trains that rumbled in from Oshkosh at 6 o'clock this morning.

But more than all it was told by the white, flag-covered city that sprang up within an hour at the fair grounds.

"Rigging" The Tents.

With Press Agent Starr a Gazette representative paid a visit to the grounds early this morning. The water proof tents were up and one hundred workmen were putting the interior in shape. Canvas men were pulling this rope taut or loosening

STARTING FROM THE FAIR GROUNDS.

That. High above the earth were other men arranging the trapeze and swinging a net to catch a not-too-sure aerial performer. Now drove past a cart with its load of sawdust for the ring, and that moved Agent Starr to an explanation.

Circus Rings Always the Same.

"Did you know," said he that all circus rings are the same size. They are all exactly forty-two feet in diameter. Most circus men brag that their show has bigger rings than any other.
That sort of talk is the veriest twaddle.
The ring must be one uniform dimension, or well, there would be twenty accidents every day. A horse—that is a circus horse—is trained to run around the ring, the diameter of which is forty-two feet. He knows just how to regulate his speed then. A rider is trained to balance himself so that, in a ring of forty-two feet in diameter, he'll not lose his equisipe. Enlarge or diminish the size of your ring and

JUMBO'S SUCCESSOR.

you see the inevitable result. Accidents couldn't fail to occur. Take any circus horse and put a man with a whip on a lot, and that horse will trot around a circle. Notice the indentations his hoofs have made. Stretch a measuring line across that circle and it won't differ a foot either way from the regulation forty-two in diameter.

Where Circus Meals Are Cooked.

As Starr talked he was strolling toward the cook wagon and the tents in which the large force of men connected with the circus get their meals.
The cook wagon is a trifle larger than the usual circus wagon, and is made entirely of sheet iron. A large range and two huge cauldrons are built in it, and a chief cook and four assistants see that the inner man of the circus attache is amply attended to. Of course, dinner in fourteen courses is an impossibility most of the time, and so the circus man is generally good-natured and satisfied with a meal of twelve or thirteen courses. If he can't get that he's usually content with one course.

LISTENING FOR THE BAND.

A Wee Indian Maiden.

Laughin'-g-eyes—With a Gleanin—Them is the far-reaching title of a little Indian lass who romped outside one of the tents and who was found on the field of battle immediately after the fight on December 29 last between the hostile reds and the troops of Pine Ridge agency. Laughing-eyes, etc., was picked up by a Forepaugh agent and sent east in company with Mrs.

Yellow Bird, who promised to be a mother to the little one. Laughing-eyes is but three years old, yet she speaks the Indian tongue better than the most blue-blooded and educated Janesville youngster.

Beat Queen Vic on Horses.

It was 10 o'clock when the big parade took place. A blare of trumpets started the huge line of men, animals and wagons down the hill.

"Wy, that is an outrage," sputtered a patriotic Briton as he watched the band wagon. "No body can drive eight creams in England, you know, except the queen."

The trumpeters led the procession.
Following them came mounted men and women in costumes, representing the English gentfolk of upper ten-demon and dubious morals going to the hunt. Then came Proprietor Cooper, the sole owner of the show.

The second division was led by a golden chariot drawn by twelve horses. Then followed the Goddess of Liberty, shimmering in the hot air, clad in dignity and a red, white and blue robe.

horses and trick mules brought the second division to a close.

And Next the Animals.

Then came the third part, made up to a great degree of open cages.
Lions, tigers, hyenas, leopards, panthers, in fact, every kind of wild and ferocious beast glared from behind barred cages on the wondering crowds that lined the streets. Colonel Boone was in one cage of beasts and Madame Carlotia, his wife, in another. Cheer after cheer went up as the pair passed the crowds of onlookers.

The fourth division was in charge of Adam Forepaugh, Jr., and consisted of chariots and trained stallions, ponies and lady jockeys. An odd-looking chariot was at the head of the fifth division. Then came the elephants, with slow, ponderous tread, lumbering their conscious weight between the narrow lines of neck-straining humanity and then came the sixth and last division.

The old Deadwood coach led this part of the parade. Cowboys and cowgirls, Indians and bronchos, immigrant wagons and the earpiercing cal-lopie brought the end of this great free pageant.

Under the Big Tent.

The afternoon performance began at 2 o'clock. The men napier and his complete in its specimens of wild beasts. Among them were some that have never before been exhibited in this country.
In the museum department was a complete Indian encampment, with curiosities which were both interesting and instructive.

The programme was divided into three sections under the direction of Adam Forepaugh, Jr. The entire was an imposing one, illustrating, first, a military spectacle called the Red Hussars, receding pictures of the Arabian Knights. This was followed by the introduction of Col. E. Daniel Boone and Miss Carlotia, who performed a number of large lions inside a circular cage forty feet in diameter.
Two large Danish hounds assisted in this display.

Where Cow-Boys Reigned.

"Wild West" Captain Bogardus and his sons did some expert rifle shooting.
Indians, half-breeds, cowboys and scouts illustrated scenes of frontier life, closing with the attack upon the Deadwood coach.

The hippodrome races consisted of thirteen events which illustrated the sports of France, India, America, Algiers, Rome, Ireland and England. It was a noticeable fact that every feat advertised was presented; every act upon the programme was given, and additional ones were added. Moreover, the same promise is made as to the performance to-night. The ten-tent was thronged this afternoon and a large audience may be safely guaranteed.

To-morrow the show exhibits in Rockford.

LIVE CHEAPER HERE.

President Whitford, of Milton College, Writes from England.

FOOD DEARER AND WAGES LOWER.

The Everyday Life of a Frugal, Unambitious Person Furnishes the Rock County Traveller with Material To Paint a Protection Moral.

MILTON, June 24.—The following letter from Pres. Whitford, will be of interest to the readers of The Gazette.
His topic is "The Relative Cost of Living in Free Trade England and in Protective Tariff America." Prof.
Whitford says:

"I have visited several cities in southern England, stayed nearly two weeks in London, and conversed with intelligent residents in the central and northern portions of the island. The conditions which govern the cost of food and clothing and the price of labor, I find, are quite uniform throughout that country; my attention was first called to the fact, that the charges for meals at the restaurants, cheap houses and hotels, are at least one half more than in Chicago and New York for the same victuals, the only exception I would make between is, that the quantity served in England is usually somewhat less as regards bread, meat, potatoes and butter. In some of the homes of even the well-to-do people, the difference is still greater. We can buy at retail in the United States as much wheat flour for one dollar as in England for one dollar and six cents. Beef steak sold with us for twelve cents brings in England sixteen cents; butter with us for twenty-two cents, in England seven to eight cents; and cheese with us for ten cents, in England for sixteen cents. American pork which is imported in great quantities is sold to the common laboring men at a good profit. We can get at our groceries twenty-one eggs for the money paid in England for a dozen.

Tea and Coffee are Costly.

"I am not giving the exceptional cases, but the averages. As is known, England has a revenue tariff on tea and coffee, which are admitted absolutely free into the United States.
In both cases all that is used must be imported. Exactly the same quality of tea is bought by us for fifty cents and by the Englishmen for seventy-five cents. An American country store will sell for twenty-five cents the same quantity of coffee for which a grocery in an English city will charge forty cents. It is true that England has a revenue tariff on food somewhat cheaper than in America.
A farm laborer or a mechanic goes to his daily task in the former country carrying a tin-pail which may have cost him in the beginning eighteen cents. A workman of either class in the latter country would pay for the same article twenty cents. But it costs an Englishman thirty-six cents to put into his pail the necessary food for which an American pays only twenty-five cents. It is also true that the better class of woolen goods are cheaper in England. This includes felt hats, blankets for beds and tailor-made clothes. But the garments worn by the common people every day, which are denominated ready-made clothing, are, as a rule, somewhat higher.

Cotton Comes High.

Plain cotton cloth, unbleached or bleached, and even the prints which are usually called calico, costs more than in our own country. Goods of this kind which are suitable with us for six and seven cents per yard and in England for seven and eight cents, and with us prints for twelve cents, and in England for fourteen cents.
Other examples could be given, as in the case of shoes and boots; or in the case of common linens, which are sold cheaper in the United States at retail than even in Dublin, Ireland. A skillful mechanic who has worked in the water-tube steam boiler establishment of Babcock & Wilcox in New York and in Glasgow, Scotland, and in London, states after years of experience in both countries, that he can support himself and family better on the wages of three dollars and a half a day in America than for five dollars in Great Britain. But what a contrast between the compensation paid for labor. The Singer Sewing Machine company employ thousands of workmen in Elizabeth Port, New Jersey, and in Glasgow, Scotland.

Same Work But Bigger Wages.

For precisely the same labor they pay about twice the wages in England. An extra experienced farm hand, who can perform all the various kinds of work in such a situation, commands only one hundred and twenty-five dollars a year, at the rate of ten and a half dollars per month—less than fifty cents per day—while less skillful laborers receive much less.
This information is furnished by a gentleman who owns and manages a good sized estate near Leeds. Help in their house, or their servant workmen, and even their governesses, receive one-fourth less per week than our hired girls. A school-master in London, in charge of the highest grade in the primary department, and fitted for his position in a London institution for the training of teachers and having had some years of experience, told me that his salary amounted to thirteen dollars per month. But it may be asked, "How do these English laborers manage to live on such compensation?" Well, it is rare that one of them saves enough to have a home of his own and they subsist, as a rule, on food which, for both quality and amount, an American would not be satisfied with. Besides, they are compelled to economize in many ways in respect to clothing and incidental expenses as well as to food and shelter, ways with which our workmen are strangers."

OVER THE DARK RIVER.

Mrs. Mattie Griswold.

Many will be saddened at learning of the sudden death of Mrs. Mattie Griswold, which occurred at her home, 305 Fourth avenue, last evening at 9:30 o'clock. Few were aware that Mrs. Griswold was dangerously ill.
She was attacked with grip two years ago, and, while she never fully recovered from its effects, no one entertained doubts as to her recovery. She had been confined to her home for some time, but no alarm being felt, her many friends felt no uneasiness regarding her condition. Heart failure is said to be the cause of her sudden death. She was thirty-four years of age. Mrs. Griswold was a daughter of Bentley Wheeler. She married Nora Griswold, son of Norris Griswold, and was left a widow some years ago with two daughters. Her death is a severe blow to her aged father as well as to her two surviving children.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at four o'clock, from the home.

this morning, putting a number of at work. The hill in front of City Treasurer Murphy's property will be cut down some five feet. There will be considerable filling in the ravine north of the hill. The water main passing over the hill will have to be lowered, as the cut will uncover it in some places, especially at the summit.

tim) and Miss Matilda Hanson, who died at the city hospital. Notwithstanding the great fright caused by mortality report for the month, will show a very low death rate.

GOOD WORDS FOR THE GAZETTE.

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin:
The Janesville Gazette issues a "trade edition" which is a model of artistic beauty and editorial accuracy.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The illustrated edition of The Janesville Daily Gazette was a very creditable one.

It Depends on the Liver.

"Is life worth living?" somebody asked, and the facetious reply was,
"That depends on the liver." Health and happiness are twined together.
If a man's liver is out of order, his whole system is deranged. He suffers from top to toe. This is the time to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

These efficacious little globules are as much in advance of the old-fashioned, gripping, drastic pills as electric lights are ahead of a wick stuck in whale oil.

Spent in Disposing of Association Business—Horse Parade and Fire

The local committees have arranged for the entertainment of six hundred delegates, and the programme will be about as follows:

Hands Will Play All Day.

At 10:30 o'clock the local society will arrive on a special train from the Chicago & Northwestern. There will be forty-three cities and towns represented and it is expected that upwards of five hundred delegates will be here during the session of the convention.

Says All Is Harmony.

Vice-President Dougherty denies that there is trouble between the society and the democratic party or any other party, insisting that the society never made an assessment for political purposes in a state campaign, that while members have contributed quite freely in local elections, it has been for the purpose of mutual protection, and not for politics.

BARNUM'S OWN STORY.

Stories About Wild Beasts by the Great Showman.

Few Americans do not feel that they owe P. T. Barnum a debt of gratitude for brightening their lives or the lives of their children. It is well known that Barnum's love for children grew into a passion during his later years, and to amuse and instruct them was the great delight of his life.

It was through a desire to perpetuate his name as a benefactor of the young that he wrote "Barnum's Own Story," for the children and girls of America, a book which is destined to delight and instruct millions of children and youth of more than one generation.
